JAG PLY

Since 2006 Jag Ply has evolved into a complete CNC and Wood Machining Business. Our humble beginnings of doing odd jobs has lead to today, where we are called up to do massive Commercial Projects. Recently we worked on the refurbishment of the Sydney Central Railway Station. This project required several days planning and extracting critical measurements to be cut to the exact requirements of our customer. This resulted in weeks of cutting and packing in a way that assisted the major builder to streamline their installation.

We partner with International Panels Australia (IPAPL), a leading Importer/Wholesaler/Reseller of PLY and Panel products, sourced from Australia, New Zealand and from all around the world. This ensures that we use only the best plywood products to suit your next application or building project. Jag Ply consults with Engineers, Architects, Interior Designers and Project Managers to provide exceptional service from concept of design to a completed functional and aesthetic product.

Our Panel Cutting and CNC router service also expands into Ply based products that are precision cut for structural applications. Once again material is cut to meticulous accuracy, that forms part of the flooring systems in most common residential and commercial buildings.

We pride ourselves on offering exceptional customer service, we are fastidious yet practical to bring your idea to life. Our machinists are dedicated and qualified.
